

Lifting Additional Restrictions – June 19, 2020

As we continue to balance the need to keep people safe with the need to keep our economy and society going.

Starting today:

- Residential summer camps may open with groups of 10 kids indoors, 25 kids outdoors, similar to day camps
- Indoor events can open up to 25% capacity with limits on the maximum number of people based on the size of the space.
- Outdoor events can open up to 50% capacity with limits on the maximum number of people based on the size of the space.
- Bars will be able to open at 25% or up to 50 people indoors, and must follow the same guidelines as restaurants where parties are seated and intermingling of parties is discouraged. Outdoors parties must be spaced 6ft apart, up to local capacity limits.
- Personal services will be able to expand to include things like facials, beard trimming, lip waxing, etc. where the client has to take off a mask -- these services are permitted if the worker has adequate protection.
- Non-critical manufacturing facilities can expand in-person workforce up to 50% or 50 people per room.

These steps can only be taken because Coloradans have been being smart and being diligent about protecting ourselves and others. Nobody wants to see the trendlines turn around. We must remain vigilant and continue to do our part to reduce the spread of COVID-19.
